For this purpose, to the foreign companies with no residence in Italy, CREA could require sending further documents proving what the company declared in its expression of interest.

Guaranteeing impartiality and transparency, the proposals being more advantageous for CREA will be selected, evaluating both the economic proposals and the most promising and well-founded plans of development, ensuring the widest variety development - together with an appropriate level of reliability of the contracting party - assessed on the basis of the given information or of previous relationships with CREA.

In case of comparable proposals, the terms included in the expression of interest could be a starting point and could be further negotiated;

CREA reserves the right to start the negotiation also with more than one subject in the event that the elements given by the expression of interest are not enough for choosing only one partner.

Participation in this procedure is not allowed to those meeting the conditions set out in Article 53, paragraph 16-ter, of Legislative Decree no. 165 of March 30, 2001.

Main contractual conditions

The Agreement, valid from the date of signature, will have the same duration as the Community Plant Variety Rights (CPVR) of the variety and/or any extension in non-EU countries, upon compliance with the contractual conditions set forth in it.

The Agreement will terminate immediately if CPVO, at the end of the technical examinations, decides for any reasons not to grant the CPVR. CREA could not be under any circumstances held liable for the failure to grant the CPVR protection nor for any damage the contracting Company could incur from the failure to grant the aforementioned protection.

For each variety, the Company commits to pay an entry fee, possibly divided into instalments within the first three years.

In the event that the entry fee is paid in instalments, if the company decides to terminate the contract early before having paid the whole entry fee amount, it will still be required to pay the remaining due fees in a single solution.

The Company shall pay to CREA a royalty per sold tree.

Starting from season 2033/34, the royalty will be subject to 5% increase every 5 years unless otherwise renegotiated between the Parties.

For non-EU countries, the royalty value may be subject to renegotiation between the Parties, evaluating the reference market on a case-by-case basis.

In order to reach the greatest exploitation of the varieties, the Company, beyond their own technical and commercial structure, could grant sublicense or propagation agreements to other companies, giving notice to CREA. The companies that will sign sublicense or also propagation agreements will carry out their activity under the Company's responsibility and shall report yearly the amounts of produced and commercialized plants to the Company. The Company will report those amounts to CREA and pay the collected royalties to CREA. The said agreements shall include a specific clause providing for the termination of the agreement contextually to the Agreement signed by CREA and the Company.

For any propagation and marketing activities in non-EU countries, the Company undertakes to adopt any strategy aiming to protect the varieties according to the procedures and methods established in those countries at its sole expense, through the PVR application, in the name and on behalf of CREA, and/or registration of the variety in specific registers and/or through commercial trademarks.

The Company undertakes to take charge of the importing procedures of basic material and of quarantine practices covering all related procedures and costs.

The Company agrees to carry out a specific promotional campaign for the varieties at its own expenses giving prior notice to CREA.

All other terms of the agreement could be subject to further negotiation between the Parties.
